

Michael R. Christensen

Michael R. Christensen has been studying, practicing, and teaching martial arts and self-defense for over 20 years. He studied Tae Kwon Do for seven years and spent the next 7 years training in a variety of other fighting arts and systems, including boxing and kickboxing. He attained a Black Belt Instructor Status in Rosenbach Warrior Training Branches (RWTB) a style that had its roots in Togakure Ryu Ninjutsu and Robert Bussey's Warrior International (RBWI). He has studied modern and WWII combatives under R. Ethan Jensen and has received instruction in Combative Tactics and Survival Systems (CTSS) taught by Devin Crinklaw. Christensen is recognized as an Affiliate Instructor in Martial Blade Concepts/Counter Blade Concepts (MBC/CBC) an ever evolving, comprehensive, self-protection system pioneered by Michael D. Janich. Christensen is a charter member of Kaze Group, founded by his instructor, Mr. Christopher Doner. He has assisted in teaching close combat seminars for the Creighton University JROTC program and has served as an assistant instructor for women's self-protection seminars.

Christensen holds a B.S. degree in computer engineering from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln and has experience in networking, wireless networking, VoIP (Voice over IP) telephone technology and network security.
